

I am currently a graduate student of software engineering at Ferdowsi University of Mashhad. My research interests are topics concerning Software security and software engineering. I am currently working on secure design patterns which incorporates security design principles in software engineering.